

Welcome Home!

You Served Faithfully,
Honorably and with Pride!

Time to Relax

- Family functions
- See old friends
- Attend parties
- Go to clubs/bars

Increased access to alcohol
and maybe drugs

A Different War at Home

- The war against drug and alcohol abuse and the other high risks associated with them
 - Since 9-11 the Army has had a 7% increase in problem drinkers*
 - Alcohol related incidents have increased for Soldiers returning home

* Reintegration Unit Risk Inventory Survey data

Alcohol/Drug Related Problems

- DUI
- Vomiting
- Hangover
- Unexpected guest for breakfast
- Unprotected sex and/or unwanted sex
- Possible STD
- Fighting
- Loss of control – doing stupid things
- Reduced work quality and performance
- Financial problems
- Injury
- Problems with friends and family
- Health related problems
- Spouse/child abuse
- Passing out
- Black outs
- Death

Risk Factors

- Potential factors that may contribute to substance abuse
 - Reduced Alcohol Tolerance
 - Stress associated with reintegrating into the family
 - PTSD
 - Boredom
 - Availability of drugs and alcohol

Tolerance

- Alcohol Tolerance – The body's adaptation to alcohol use. It takes more alcohol to reach the same level of intoxication.
 - As tolerance increases you may not feel intoxicated, but you could be over the legal driving limit. Some alcohol dependent people can have a 0.2 or higher Blood Alcohol Content (BAC) and show little to no signs of being intoxicated.
 - As a persons tolerance increases, so does their chances of eventually becoming alcohol dependent

Note: Legal limit BAC for driving is .08

Tolerance - Example

When you first started drinking you may have starting feeling intoxicated after 2 or 3 beers

But after a while, it may taken up to 6 beers to feel the same way

This is the body's way of adapting to the alcohol, but it can fool you into getting a DUI or other alcohol related incident

Tolerance

- Individuals with low tolerances or people who have not drunk in a long time (i.e. deployed) may show effects of being intoxicated at BAC levels as low as 0.05.
- If you begin drinking on a regular basis, your tolerance level will quickly return and eventually surpass what it was before you deployed.

Tolerance - Example

Before you deployed, it may have taken a six pack before you felt the effects of the alcohol

But now, it may only take 3 beers to feel the same way

This happens because your body has not had alcohol in a long time and the tolerance level is reduced

Reintegration

- The stress associated with potential conflict between spouses and children after a long separation.
 - New routines at home
 - Children resentful, afraid, or not bonding
 - Doing too much or not enough
 - Unfaithfulness
- Using drugs or alcohol to reduce this stress will only increase your problems at home.

PTSD

- Many Soldiers will experience some stress associated with their experiences while deployed
 - Loss of Fellow Soldier
 - Guilty feelings
 - Unpleasant memories
- These thoughts and feeling will subside over time in most of you

PTSD

- Some Soldiers will become overwhelmed by flashbacks, memories, nightmares, frightening thoughts, sleep disturbances, depression, anxiety, and irritability.
- If these symptoms persist, seek medical treatment.
- Do not try to use alcohol and/or drugs to overcome or reduce these symptoms; it will only make things worse.

PTSD

- The National Center for PTSD states that people with PTSD also tend to have substance abuse issues
 - 51.9 % of men with PTSD abuse alcohol or are alcohol dependent
 - 27.9% of women with PTSD abuse alcohol or are alcohol dependent
 - 34.5% of men with PTSD abuse drugs or are drug dependent

Boredom

- Since we were notified of our deployment
 - You have been on an adrenaline high
 - Working 7 days a week at least 12 hours a day
- Now
 - Less excitement
 - Leave and then returning to normal duty days
- You may become a thrill seeker – Drive fast, party too much, try drugs, etc

Availability

- We know that some Soldiers used drugs and/or drank alcohol while deployed – of course no one in this unit
- Now you can buy alcohol almost anywhere (if you are 21) and drugs are pretty much available anywhere
